Soldiers fired on Communist demonstrators, killing three and wounding 11. The soldiers were reinforced by a tank bristling with machine guns, and cavalry, when trying to clear the street in which the Communist headquarters are situated.

The Presidential Palace is strongly guarded. Armed students are assisting the army. Considerable shooting occurred in the district where many Americans reside.

The strikers are planning to cause a general stoppage of trade and to take over the sugar mills which the Government are unable to protect. — Reuter.

MONETARY POLICY EXPECTED SOON

FLIGHT OF CAPITAL FROM AMERICA

ROOSEVELT PLANS TO OVERCOME RECOVERY DIFFICULTIES

WASHINGTON, YESTERDAY.

A MONETARY DECLARATION BY PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT IS IMMINENT, ACCORDING TO HIGH UNITED STATES OFFICIALS. IT IS LIKELY TO INCLUDE DEVALUATION AND STABILISATION OF THE DOLLAR AND A PROMISE OF RETURN TO THE GOLD STANDARD.

The reason for this move, according to the "New York Times," is that the Recovery Drive, has reached, an important stage and that difficulties are developing in the farming and public works administration. Latest indices show that production and distribution are slackening and that employment and pay roll gains are partly offset by the shorter hours and the higher cost of living.

The "New York Times" asserts that the flight of capital to England, Switzerland and Holland approaches U.S. $1,000,000,000, while new investments are at a standstill.

A movement for credit expansion has apparently begun with the appointment of Mr. Henry Bruere, former President of the Bowery Savings Bank and former Adviser to the Mexican Government, as super-administrator of the Federal Credit Agencies.

It is considered probable that the Liability Provisions Securities Act will be relaxed in order to facilitate new issues.

Among the National Recovery Administration's achievements is the re-organisation of 375 national banks which have re-opened, thus releasing deposits totalling U.S.$400,000,000. The Government are determined to assist only solvent banks.

It is understood that the President is considering the appointment of an advisory committee with a view to closer supervision of the New York Stock Exchange to prevent wild fluctuations and to minimise market rigging, pool trading and the excesses which are believed to have played havoc with commodity values and which are shattering confidence.

The Retail Code has been completed and forwarded to General Hugh S. Johnson, head of the Recovery Administration, for approval, and is likely to become effective on October 16.

Meanwhile, only 50 per cent. of the pledges in favour of wheat acreage reduction have been received. The farmers' difficulties are revealed by the index of farm prices on September 15, which are 70 per cent. of pre-war level, while manufactured products are 16 per cent. above pre-war level. — Reuter.

CODE FOR STEEL COMPANIES.

Roosevelt's Effort To End Strike.

Washington, Yesterday.

The National Industrial Recovery Administration Counsellor yesterday flew to Hyde Park for the President's signature to an agreement to bring the steel companies in West Pennsylvania under the terms of the bituminous coal code.

President Roosevelt expects that the agreement will enable the workers in those mines to resume work on Monday.

U.S. STRIKERS THREATEN VIOLENCE

Tear Clothes From Workers.

THREAT OF CHAOS IN RECOVERY CAMPAIGN

New York, Yesterday.

Temper are growing shorter in the United States and the threat of violence is serious with strikes extending from coast to coast. The National Recovery Administration are anxious to help but are seemingly powerless.

Five thousand coal-strikers, hungry and weary from their long trek, yesterday stormed the Carnegie steel factory at Clairborn, Pennsylvania which employs 6,000 workers. They tore the clothes off a number of workers and devoured the contents of their dinner-buckets and also tried to induce the steelworkers to strike.

The stoppage in the soft coal industry in Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia, involves practically 100 per cent. of the workers, while strikers are planning to picket the Ford works in order to induce a strike there.

Meanwhile, the Governor of Pennsylvania yesterday flew to Hyde Park to induce President Roosevelt to intervene before chaos and strikes overthrow the Recovery Campaign. So far Hyde Park is silent, and Washington likewise, but both places are humming with activity and there are persistent rumours that President Roosevelt will launch a world appeal for economic peace even more dramatic than the arms and peace appeal.

The President of the American Federation of Labour, Mr. William H. Green, has revealed that the Federation increased its membership by 4,500,000 in the last three months, which will mean a huge increase in funds. — Reuter.

Shanghai, Yesterday.

SLIGHT SKIRMISHES WITH FANG'S ARMY

Peking, Yesterday.

According to Chinese reports 2,000 Special Police, sent from Tientsin to the Luanlung region to suppress banditry, were turned back by Japanese military forces at Lanchow because they had machine-guns and trench mortars, contrary to the Tangku Treaty.

The Japanese took possession of the town but nevertheless did not allow the Police to proceed.

There has been skirmishing in the region of the Ming Tombs and the Nankow Pass between the retreating army of Fang Chen-wu and the Government garrison, but nothing of a serious nature. — Reuter's Pacific Service.

CONVICT SHIP TAKES 673 TO FRENCH GUIANA

Travel In Cages In Hold.

PRISONERS CHAINED AND PADLOCKED

La Rochelle, Yesterday.

Close shutters along the Quay St. Martin were the order of the day when 673 convicts, bound for the penal settlement in French Guiana to-day sailed in the convict ship, "La Martinique".

Columns of troops with loaded rifles and fixed bayonets, guarded the narrow path, known as "The Road to Guiana," leading from the citadel to the quay-side, in order to prevent disturbances.

Clad in grey cotton uniforms and carrying a blanket and a bundle with a few possessions, each convict looked for perhaps the last time at his native land.

Then the roll-call was taken, and in chains, with padlocked wrists, the sad column marched down the path and boarded two tenders on which prison chaplains, one Catholic and one Protestant, said a few words.

The tenders then steamed out and the convicts climbed the ladders up the side of the ship and descended to the enormous cages in the hold in which they will travel to French Guiana. — Reuter.

The French enterprise is expected to total 1,000,000,000 francs, of which 60 per cent. will be distributed in prizes. The remainder will swell the revenue. — Reuter.

Chapter VII.—THE TEMPLE.

(By GERALD HURRARD.)

OF all the passes into Western Tibet the Lipu Lek is the easiest. Its height is but 16,750 feet, and the snowfall is so light that pilgrims frequently cross it in mid-winter. Its passage offered no difficulties, and Geoffrey and Sher Khan soon dropped down on to the Tibetan plateau. There were many pilgrims journeying towards Kailas, and Geoffrey hoped that they would be able to reach the temple without arousing suspicion. The "Tiger" had obviously posted guards on the frontier, for they had seen two Tibetans on the road, but these gave no sign of suspicion. On the second day in Tibet they were passing a ridge of hills when they heard a shot, apparently not far distant.

Inquiries elicited the fact that an Englishman was shooting in the neighbourhood. The hope of an ally made Geoffrey move towards the spot whence the sound of the shot had come. As they approached the hills a white man appeared riding on a pony. Geoffrey was about to hurry forward when something prompted him to take a look through the glasses. Sher Khan did not understand the reason for Geoffrey's oath of disappointment, but then he did not know Philip Hayde Thompson. For the man on the pony and the man whom Geoffrey had hated all his life were one and the same person.

In spite of his bitter disappointment at finding Hayde Thompson within a quarter of a mile, Geoffrey was about to advance and welcome him as a fellow-Englishman, and as such someone on whom to rely for support, when his old distrust of the man asserted itself. What was he doing out here in Tibet? Hadn't he been helping at the Foreign Office? And then an awful suspicion flashed through Geoffrey's mind. The "Tiger" had an ally in England. This ally had warned him of Geoffrey's departure in the Ganges. Hayde Thompson had been at the Foreign Office at the time and might easily have learnt of the booking of Geoffrey's passage. Further, this ally had recently come out to Tibet. Here was Thompson. It certainly all fitted in—nevertheless the idea seemed too preposterous. But was it? Thompson had suddenly become possessed of a vast fortune. How? No one knew. What if he owed it to the treasures of the "Tiger's" temple? Geoffrey's natural dislike and distrust for the man made him suspicious, but those suspicions unquestionably seemed to fit in with facts.

Thompson was rapidly approaching. He must have seen Geoffrey and Sher Khan leave the track and come towards the hills. If they turned back his suspicions might be aroused. There was no time to be lost. "Sher Khan, I do not know, but I think that this white man riding towards us is the wise one in England of whom Chang Fen spoke and who is reported to have recently come out to join the 'Tiger'. We cannot run any risks. Let us go up and ask for meat. Say we heard his shot, and beg for a little meat. I have often given Hindu pilgrims meat myself when out shooting in Garhwal before the war. You must be spokesman. He knew me in England and might recognise me."

For the moment the Pathan was almost too surprised to answer, but he quickly recovered himself and nodded assent. Thompson was now almost upon them and Sher Khan stepped forward and saluted profoundly.

"Protector of the poor. We are pilgrims to the Holy Mountain. This is a cold country and we have not tasted meat for many days. We heard you fire. May it please your honour to spare us a little meat?" "Ha, Hindus, are you? I thought Hindus did not eat meat," Thompson's Hindustani was not very good, but better than Geoffrey had anticipated. When, where, and why had he learnt? His suspicions deepened.

"In the cold of the hills, Protector of the poor, we need meat to give us strength, warmth, and nourishment. Even the holy Brahmins at the temples of Badrinath, Kedarnath, and Gangotri eat meat. We know, for we have been here. Who are not to follow in their footsteps?" Geoffrey spoke in a husky voice. He was afraid that Sher Khan might not know the ins and outs of Hinduism in the hills as well as he did.

"I don't care who you are. But I can give you no meat. I have only shot one burrel, and I want that for my own servants. Go away."

Geoffrey and Sher Khan saluted once more and made their way back to the road, the former still in doubt whether he was a fool not to declare himself to Thompson and ask his help.

That night they camped with a crowd of other pilgrims almost at the foot of the sacred peak of Kailas, the centre of the universe for both Hindus and Buddhists. They had marched quickly and had seen no more of Thompson; nor had they come across any indications of the power of the mysterious "Tiger." It would seem as if he did not rule in the immediate neighbourhood of his house. Or was his rule really as powerful as they knew it to be in India? They had no means of judging.

The next morning Geoffrey decided to start at once for the temple, but before making a move he determined to try and find out of the priests and lamas at the temple on the southern side had any suspicion as to the character of the ruler of the one of the northern faces of the mountain. On ascending a spur he noticed that an obvious white man's camp was pitched but a mile to the east. This could be none other than Thompson's, and the fact that he seemed to be making for the northern face strengthened Geoffrey's already strong suspicions. In fact, one more minor coincidence would make them a certainty, and very shortly that coincidence was supplied.

Some servants and followers approached the little stall where the pilgrims could purchase a few minor luxuries at an exorbitant price. They could only be from Thompson's camp, and one of them, Geoffrey noted immediately, was a Tibetan.

He was now no longer suspicious. He was positive.

Hastening back to Sher Khan, he told him of this latest discovery, and suggested making a reconnaissance of Thompson's camp. This was a plan after the Pathan's heart, and they decided to watch the camp. If no move was made they would approach it under cover of night. Geoffrey chafed at the delay, but realised that their only chance of reaching Phyllis and Mr. Merridew was by the exercise of low cunning rather than brute force.

Utilizing Summer Frocks

Material Useful For Accessories.

BUTTON-ON COLLARS AND CUFFS

DO not throw away or give away your summer frocks until you have quite decided that they cannot be put to any use.

Organdie and pique ones may be particularly useful for winter accessories. Collars and cuffs which button on and off the gown are popular, and make these dainty additions at very small cost. If your tailor is clever, he can make roses and leaves of the stiffened organdie, while pique or linen, with fagoting introduced, can make useful and pretty collars.

White is popular at present, but there is no reason why some of the pastel-shaded organdies should not be similarly used, and if they are not in fashion, then set the fashion—somebody has to do it, so why not you?

It seems a pity to make dusters or dish clothes of these things when they can be put to ornamental use. Do not forget that flowered silks can be made into cushion covers—providing they fit in with the existing colour scheme of your rooms.

Colourful cottons may be used as pipings or applique, and since so many of the cotton dress materials this year have been of fast colour, they will come in excellently for many household uses.

Beauty Of The Human Foot

Sandals And Summer Freedom.

RETURNING from his travels a quarter of a century ago, the late Sir Frederick Treves, writing as an eminent surgeon, expressed the opinion that the adult human foot was seldom an object of beauty. At that time he was probably right, at any rate as regards boot and shoe wearing countries.

But among the beneficent movements of the last few years, and particularly of the current summer, has been a marked emancipation from the conditions chiefly responsible for this lack of beauty.

Feet have become more visible than ever before; thanks largely to the widespread teaching of Greek dancing to children, they have been a common sight, bare in the country, and lightly sandalled in town.

It is a freedom to be welcomed, both from the point of view of health and aesthetics. The human foot that has been allowed full play for its natural elasticity is seldom ugly, and often beautiful.

The reflex results, too, of its unconfined activities are not restricted to the foot itself. There is a muscular response to it throughout the body that is equally graceful and beneficial; and it is sincerely to be hoped that this re-discovered freedom will not be conventionally discarded.

In scores of homes this summer sandals have been kicked off and feet gone bare. And there is every reason why such a healthy and comfortable custom should be continued even during the winter months.

THE new knitted three-piece suit is sure stand-up, and it is much more practical to have the shirt or jumper all to match. These suits can now be procured inexpensively, for the West-end shops already stock them in all sizes. They are becoming in soft wools, well tailored, and knitted to resemble a tweed. Some of the stitchery is most interesting. A raised and flat design are used together in two colours.

Paris Fashion Pirates

Plan Of Leading Houses To Outwit Them.

IDENTITY CARDS FOR BUYERS

PARIS fashion houses have agreed to adopt a new plan to outwit fashion "pirates." Preparations are being made to issue identity cards to representatives of buyers and of newspapers. Without them it will be almost impossible to gain admission to dress shows.

This is the latest development in the "war" which broke out a year or two ago between French designers of new clothes, hats, and fabrics, and copyists of different nationalities who constantly endeavour to steal their ideas.

Leading houses, which include Worth, Lanvin, Patou, Vionnet, Schiaparelli, and Mainbocher, have established a kind of "Superior War Council," which is called the Association for the Artistic Protection of the Seasonal Industries, and of which M. A. Trouyet, of Vionnet's, is president.

Identity Cards Detail.

The identity cards will not be issued until the end of the year. On the outside of each one regulations will be set forth, and inside there will be spaces for the holder's photograph and signature and for the name and guarantees of the organisation which he or she represents. This organisation may be a newspaper or magazine, or a firm of retail or wholesale dress importers.

Finally, there is a space for the official stamp of the association, which will be affixed only after a very thorough examination of the applicant's status. Holders will be admitted to the establishments of Schiaparelli, and Mainbocher, in accordance with the regulations.

KWOK BREAKS OWN RECORD

Brilliant Unpaced Race At Y.M.C.A.

FWLER FAMILY WIN THE AGGREGATE FINALS

Campbell Breaks Record

Swimming a brilliant unpaced race against time, Kwok Chun-hang, the Colony's 100 Yards Breast Stroke record holder and H.K.I.A.S.A. holder of the Breast and Back Stroke championship titles, clipped 4-1/10 seconds off the existing H.K.I.A.S.A. 200 Yards Breast Stroke championship time to set up a new record of 2 minutes 39-2/10 seconds, at last night's final Y.M.C.A. swimming gala.

Kwok's amazing time is only two-fifths of a second off the British National record set up by T. Caronnet in London last year.

The outstanding "Y" features were the Men's and Ladies' 50 Yards Aggregate Handicap finals, which were won by S. Fowler and his sister, Miss Anne Fowler.

W. T. Campbell won a brilliant race in the Men's 400 Yards Free Style Championship when he set up a 6 minutes 1-1/2 seconds, shattering a new Association and Bath record in his previous best by 2-1/10 seconds.

At the conclusion of the gala Brigadier General R. B. Cousins, D.S.O., presented the season's prizes.

The following were the results:—

ONLY SURPRISE OF OPENING GAMES

TWO PLAYERS ORDERED OFF AT KING'S PARK

MATCH CANCELLED BY REFEREE

ONLY one surprise featured the opening of the local soccer league yesterday and that was provided by the Navy, who caused a sensation by outplaying the formidable Borderers' team by 5 goals to 1 in the Second Division. It was the best game of the day.

Two players — Bowen, of the Recreio, and Moss, of the Police — were given marching orders in the match at King's Park, and the Third Division game between the Radio and the Service Corps was cancelled by the referee on account of poor ground arrangements.

The Medical Corps made an auspicious debut by winning over the University by 10 goals to 1. Their big total was largely responsible for the total of 55 goals for the nine matches played.

First Division.

Cord Plays Fine Game In Goal.

LINCOLNS DEFIED UNTIL CLOSING STAGES.

RIDLEY SCORES DECIDER.

Though quite obviously the superior team the Lincolns were defied by Cord until five minutes before the close when they scored the only goal of the match against Kowloon.

Cord gave a superb display between the sticks, and, on his showing, is well worthy of Interport recognition.

Hocquard and Ridley were as dangerous as ever for the Lincolns. They showed good understanding, seldom being out of position and always prepared to shoot. Harding worked hard, but was erratic, while McGuinness did not control the ball well in the first half of the game, but he improved as the game progressed. The defence, on the whole, played well, but Heath made one mistake which almost resulted in the downfall of his club.

Running out to intercept a centre from Davies, he could only punch the ball away and Blake promptly returned it — a fast ground shot — which struck the foot of the upright and rebounded into play. Heath was then yards away from his goal!

For the home team, apart from Cord, Blake, the left winger played a good hard game, showing a fine turn of speed. Elliott was inclined to dribble instead of distributing the ball a fatal mistake against such defenders as the Lincolns. The inside forward, G. White and V. White could not get going, although the latter tested Heath on a few occasions. Davies did not have many chances to shine, being too well covered by Bett.

Blake was the best of the defence, tackling well and passing to advantage. With Cord in magnificent form there did not appear to be any likelihood of a goal being scored, although at one time the Lincolns' forwards bombarded the Kowloon goal from all angles, at least half a dozen shots being sent in, in many seconds. RIDLEY, however, scored the all-important goal in the closing stages. Baldry sent over a glorious centre which glanced off the cross-bar direct to Ridley who headed past Cord.

Kowloon:—Cord; Hill, Willis; Whitefield, Jones, Ellis; Davies, White (G). Elliott, White (V) and Blake. Lincolns:—Heath; Turner, Colclough; Dudley, Cork, Bett; Baldry; Harding, McGuinness, Ridley and Hocquard.

THE OPENING OF THE LOCAL FOOTBALL

Season Will Be Reviewed In The China Mail

To-morrow By Outside Left

Club Beat Artillery In Second Half.

EDMUNDS MISSEN PENALTY FOR LOSERS

FWLER SCORES TWO GOALS

The Club opened the season well with a 4-2 victory over the Royal Artillery on the Club ground before a good crowd.

The Club were full value for their victory, their positional play was better, and though they showed little combination, they placed reliance on the wingers and won by go-ahead methods.

Wright did not turn out, and Robertson, the Rugby player, came in at right-half to justify his inclusion. He played a splendid spilling game and saved two certain goals when the Artillery were seen at their best.

Best served in defence — the Club had a good pivot in Skinner, while Rickford, Howe and Fowler were the best of the forwards.

Combey was the outstanding player on the field. Greenfields and Wroe cleared well, but slight lapses cost goals. Pardoe and Collier were good halves, but Pardoe's distribution of the ball was not up to his usual standard.

Smith was the best forward, Allan being good up to a point, his centring being weak. Seal made some fine runs, but found Robertson a stumbling block.

Howe opened the scoring for the Club while lying on the ground after Combey had partially saved his header. The Artillery should have come on terms when they were awarded a penalty, but Edmunds sent in a weak shot which Fogwill saved. The Artillery, however, equalised when Walker netted shortly before the interval.

Soon after the resumption Fowler gave the Club the lead and further increased it when he headed twice before beating Combey. A few minutes later S. Strange, the Club skipper, placed them three goals in the lead from a penalty. In the last minute of the game Walker scored his second goal after a solo effort to reduce the arrears.

Club:—Fogwill, Hynes, S. Strange, Robertson, Skinner, Duncan, Fowler, Dornay, Howe, E. Strange and Rickford. Artillery:—Combey; Greenfields, Wroe; Rogers, Pardoe, Collier, Allan, Smith, Edmunds, Walker and Seal. Referee:—Mr. J. Baldwin.

Two Players Ordered Off Field.

POLICE DESERVE TRIUMPH OVER RECREIO

GREEN MAKES GOOD DEBUT

The Police defeated the Recreio at King's Park by 5 goals to 1, and, though flattered by such a margin, they thoroughly deserved their victory.

The initial stages of the game promised some very fine football but frayed tempers in the second half led to bad feeling which resulted in Moss and Bowen being "ordered off."

The Police forwards played well together, and with Channings plac-

SHANGHAI BOWLERS DEFEATED

Bowling Green Win By 14 Shots.

POOR GAME WITNESSED

The Shanghai Interport Lawn Bowls team suffered their first setback yesterday when they met the Kowloon Bowling Green Club and lost by 14 shots.

The green may have been against good bowling, but, allowing for this, the standard of play was not good.

It may be said in Shanghai's favour that the "luck" was against them, and that what luck there was went in favour of the locals. This was in evidence on the 11th hand when Bailey, attempting to increase his lay of one, drew true to the jack, but with too much force, with the result that the jack went through to give the local side a lay of 4. On the 17th hand Rapley did a similar thing with his first wood, but through luck favouring him, he accidentally knocked up Drake's wood with his last shot to give his team a lay of one.

Of the visitors Bailey was the most accurate in both drawing and driving, and of the Bowling Green four there was very little to choose between Petherick, Gow and Rapley. Drake drew well occasionally, but was not consistent.

As a team the Bowling Green were undoubtedly better than Shanghai, and if yesterday's form is any criterion Hong Kong will have little to fear in the coming Interport matches.

FOUR CRICKET ENCOUNTERS YESTERDAY

Munn, Teddy Fincher, T. A. Pearce and A. H. Madar Shine.

WHITLEY HAS 9 FOR 21

Cricket made a start in the Colony yesterday with three trial games and a friendly fixture.

Among the Interport batsmen to do well were Teddy Fincher, and A. H. Madar, while T. A. Pearce, who is almost a certainty for next month's match against Shanghai hit with glorious freedom in the H.K.C.C. Trial. F. A. Munn again distinguished himself at the K.C.C., and A. B. Tata was largely responsible for the University juniors beating the R.A.S.C.

The best bowling feats of the day were recorded by W. G. Whitley (9 for 21) and T. L. Redmond (6 for 14 in the H.K.C.C. Trial).

Pearce Hits Three Sixes At H.K.C.C.

PROMISING MEDIUM FAST BOWLER IN REDMOND

THREE sixes and five boundaries in an innings of 45 by T. A. Pearce and brilliant bowling by T. L. Redmond, (6 for 14) the former Rosslyn Park Rugby three-quarter, provided the features of the first Hong Kong Cricket Club trial yesterday.

Pearce, who went in at the fall of the third wicket, hit a ball from Way out of the ground, and punished two successive balls from Kilbee in similar manner. "Tam" Pearce, well-known Interport skipper, scored 22 before being stumped. Redmond, who bowls a medium fastish ball with a swerve at one period had 5 wickets for 6 runs with 19 balls.

PEREIRA AND MINU SHINE IN TRIAL

A dogged innings by A. H. Madar, well-known Interporter, featured the Indian Recreation Club trial game at Sookunpoo yesterday. Going in when two wickets had fallen to Pereira for only 16 runs Madar was undefeated at the close with 51, scored of 82. He had a five and five boundaries in his score.

Pereira had 4 for 44, and Minu, the other I.R.C. opening bowler, 4 for 34 in a low scoring match.

The Hong Kong Sunday Herald.

HONG KONG, SUNDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1933.

Colony's Sound Finances.

HONG KONG, by virtue of its function as a distributing and trading centre, and of the fact that local industry is on a minor scale, was for a long time left comparatively unscathed by the economic blizzard, and even though the effects of the depression have been felt somewhat severely this year, the import and export trade having declined considerably during recent months, the Colony is fortunately situated and, by contrast to most parts of the world, almost prosperous. Evidence of this is seen in the building activity and the establishment of new industries, but the best illustration is provided by the Colony's financial statement. Despite trade adversity and falling revenue it is estimated that 1934 will close with a surplus of assets over liabilities of ten and a half millions, while the estimated deficit for the year is under two millions. To obtain a proper perspective of the position it is well to bear in mind the colossal deficits which are harassing the administrations of most nations, particularly France and the United States. Britain has balanced her Budget, but only through the exercise of extreme caution and through tremendous sacrifices by the taxpayer. In Hong Kong no increased taxation is imposed, and a progressive Public Works programme is in hand. Disappointment was felt in some quarters that no reduction of taxes was made, but we contend that this is a matter which need not engage serious official attention until economic conditions improve.

While little quarrel can be found with the Government's policy, the Colonial Secretary (who presented his first Budget in an admirable manner) was inclined to be unduly dismal in his review. There is no need for alarm at the prospect of a deficit next year—a prospect which is more remote than official caution would have it appear. If it were found essential, use of a part of the reserves would be justified in a period of depression, while if revenue fell away in startling fashion the Government has always the last resort of increasing taxation. However, there is small ground for forebodings at this stage, and the outlook for the future may be stated to be fairly bright. The present year is expected to close with a surplus of assets over liabilities of $13,309,801 including the million and a quarter from the City Hall site. Expenditure during 1934 is calculated at $33,442,695, and revenue at $31,731,625, leaving a deficit of $1,711,070. The end of 1934 should therefore see a reduced surplus $11,598,731, or deducting the million and a quarter just mentioned, under ten and a half millions. This surplus may seem unnecessarily high, even though several large commitments, aggregating about $3,500,000, may have to be met from the reserves. While a recurrence of two such windfalls such as the Inchcape death duties and the proceeds from the City Hall site, totalling over three millions, cannot be expected, the 1934 revenue has been estimated on a conservative basis and it is not unlikely that some of the items which dropped last year, particularly opium and tobacco, may exceed the estimate. Further, as in 1932, the Government has shown a natural caution in calculating the exchange and it is a fairly safe prediction that the dollar will maintain a higher rate than the estimated 1s. 3d. The insistence of the advocates of remonetization in Britain and America and the uncertainty of international monetary policies create an unsettled situation regarding silver, and fluctuations in the dollar, probably upward, are expected to develop more definitely in the near future. If the value of the dollar were enhanced to any great degree, the administration would be embarrassed with one of the principal items of expenditure, Government salaries. The Colony has suffered much from exchange vagaries, which aggravate Budget difficulties. The case for a stabilised dollar becomes stronger, but in view of the chaotic conditions prevailing in international monetary spheres the occasion is inopportune for reviving the issue. But despite the uncertainties of exchange, the Budget reveals an extremely satisfactory state of affairs and the Government is fortunate in being able to embark on the many progressive enterprises detailed in the Public Works programme. The Budget may lack colour in that policy is sound rather than sensational, but it affords refreshing and stimulating reading.

SURGICAL TRIUMPH IN SYDNEY

Twisted Neck Cured After 36 Years.

DELICATE OPERATION

Sydney, N.S.W.

A delicate operation performed at Sydney Hospital recently has enabled a man to move his head, which has been clamped down to his right shoulder for 36 years by contracted muscles.

Mr. W. E. N. Fitzgerald of Double Bay, (near Sydney) who is a son of a former Lord Mayor of Sydney (Mr. W. P. Fitzgerald), had suffered from his affliction since birth. His head was held down close to his shoulder, and he was unable to turn his head.

The trouble, which is known to doctors as congenital torticollis, is nearly always due to injury of the muscles of the neck when children are very young. As the patient becomes older the muscles set, and operations to remedy defects of this nature become extremely difficult.

Mr. Fitzgerald placed himself in the hands of Dr. Finley, the Superintendent at Sydney Hospital. Dr. Kay and other doctors took charge of the case, and the delicate operation was performed. The patient's condition began to improve almost immediately, and he was discharged from hospital recently. He was able to use his neck normally, except for a slight stiffness, which will wear off gradually.—Router.

"STAR" DISCOVERS SPOT ON PLANET

Prominent Comedian As Astronomer.

NEW LIGHT ON SATURN

London.

A music-hall star and the planet Saturn—an odd combination—have been in the news together.

Most people have heard Will Hay (in person or on gramophone records) admonishing the extraordinarily stupid Boys of St. Michael's. He is the schoolmaster star of the stage.

Well, when the ground paint is off, Will Hay is to be found gazing at the stars from the observatory he has made in his London back garden. He is a Fellow of the Royal Astronomical Society. He has been studying the stars for years and now he has been rewarded.

Shortly before one midnight recently Will Hay discovered a huge spot, about 20,000 miles long, on the planet Saturn.

The joy of a botanist finding a five-leaf clover, of an anthropologist finding the Missing Link, of a book-worm picking up a first edition of Shakespeare for threepence—none of these things equalled the joy of this comedian-astronomer as he informed the authorities of his great discovery.

Three days later an American announced the same "discovery" but Britain got there first.

The "spot" is expected to be of immense value to astronomers in tracing the course and speed of Saturn's rotation.—Router.

GIRL MURDERED BY VODOOS.

Brutal Killing During Jungle Ceremony.

New York.

Twelve suspected voodoo worshippers are detained at Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana, in the investigation of the sacrifice of a girl at a jungle ceremony, according to reports from Paramaribo published by the New York "Times."

Miss Klaverwijde, an employee of the Nickerie post office, was persuaded by a voodoo worshipper to consult a "bush wizard" when doctors were unable to cure a baffling malady. She was taken to a jungle temple at midnight, but instead of attempting to cure her the voodoo cult slow her.

Searching friends found the body placed in a sitting posture in the jungle. A mixture of ground glass and honey had been placed in her mouth.—Router.

TOPICS

from OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

September 11.

Mr. Lansbury's Humility.

Is Mr. Lansbury developing an inferiority complex?

Shortly after he became leader of the Parliamentary Labour Party he said, "In the Parliamentary Labour Party he said, 'In the House of Commons we struggle on, finding ourselves surrounded by people very much like ourselves.'"

Now he says, "No single Minister displays the least economic intelligence when speaking or legislating, not because they are ignorant, but solely because the pursuit of their policy forbids them to face the truth."

That has the fine old Lansbury ring, but mark what follows. "We put no trust in great men," he continues. "We don't know where to find them."

And he ends by picturing himself and his friends, "unworthy as we may all feel ourselves to be," striving in pursuit of an ideal which, in such circumstances, he has surely but little hope of attaining.

Sir Horace Avery.

Mr. Justice Avery, who was 82 on August 31, has completely recovered from the indisposition which caused him to collapse in court some months ago, and is apparently without intention of fulfilling rumours of his retirement. It has been said of him that he looks more like a horseman than a lawyer, and until quite recently, indeed, he was a keen follower of the Surrey Union Hunt.

Probably no judge in recent times has had more experience in the administration of criminal law. He had been Counsel to the Treasury at Old Bailey for many years before his elevation to the Bench in 1910, and since then has tried many sensational cases.

Lionel Troughton.

Lionel Troughton, whose death was mourned in every town and village of Kent, was something more than the most successful Kent cricket captain since Jack Mason.

He was a born leader and played his part magnificently on other fields than those of cricket.

When the war started he was 35 and already captain of Kent. He enlisted as a private in the 10th Battalion of the Rifle Brigade. He ended up by commanding it.

Actually he was a better golfer than a cricketer. He had recently undergone an operation for duodenal ulcer. Then pleurisy, perhaps the result of being gassed in the war, set in.

He left a widow and two small children and an army of friends who will measure the character and ability of future Kent captains by the Troughton standard.

Lord Leconfield.

Lord Leconfield, who has had a miraculous escape from death in the cross-roads motor tragedy outside Worthington, in Cumberland, is Lord-Lieutenant of Sussex and patron of 25 livings. He gives close and serious attention to the duties of his rank.

Petworth House, his Sussex home, is one of the show places of England. It has a magnificent picture gallery which is open to the public.

Until a year ago Lord Leconfield, who is now 61, hunted a private pack of fox-hounds, bearing all the expenses himself. Last year it was turned into a subscription pack.

There is one sorrow in Lord Leconfield's life. He has no children. He has, however, adopted two orphans—a boy and a girl.

New Provost of Queen's.

Dr. Walker's successor in the famous office of Provost of Queen's College, Oxford—Canon D. H. Streeter—is one of the most prominent of Oxford theologians.

He is the leading apologist of the modernist movement in the Church of England, and has even gone so far as to praise Mr. H. G. Wells's theology from the pulpit. He is tall, bearded and bespectacled; a teetotaler, but a lover of good food and good conversation.

He will be one of the very few men at Oxford to combine the friendship of a House with a Professorship, since he already holds the Chair of Exegesis of Holy Scripture.

Age in the Civil Service.

There is an unusual feature in the appointment of Mr. John Jeffrey to succeed Sir John Lamb as permanent Under-Secretary of State for Scotland.

The post is that of the Civil Service head of the office. Sir John Lamb retires at the age of 62; Mr. Jeffrey succeeds him at exactly the same age.

The normal retiring age in the Civil Service is 60. The limit for permanent officials is 65; non-established officers may be retained till 70.

The late Dame Maude Lawrence, who, as Director of Women's Establishments at the Treasury, was the chief woman Civil servant, was still in the State service when she died in January last at the age of 68, her employment having been extended on the ground that retirement would be detrimental to the interests of the public service.

She was only 55, however, when she was appointed to her last post, and the selection of an official of 62 for a high executive position a departure from custom.

Art Among Philistines.

Mr. Kenneth McKenzie Clark, who has been appointed a Director of the National Gallery at the age of 30, belongs to the Paisley family. His father was a partner in the famous thread concern which is part of the Coats combine.

Mr. Clark's enthusiasm for art began when he was a schoolboy at Winchester. At Winchester, as at most public schools, the boys frown on the pursuit of unusual hobbies by a schoolfellow. Yet at the age of 14 Clark was accepted as an authority on pictures and was allowed to concentrate on his art studies unmolested.

Lord Tennyson's Memories.

Lord Tennyson, who has gone to California to recover from his recent illness, will be away when his volume of reminiscences is published in October.

Its author's style of writing, like his battling, is direct and lively. His article in these pages on the Australian complaints about "body-line" was as hard a piece of hitting as any of the famous innings he played against the terrible Gregory and Macdonald in the Test matches of 1921.

He does not seek to emulate his grandfather, though on one occasion he did write a poem. But in the West Indies once he received a letter from a lady who said that, after watching him play, she had bought his poems and, while enjoying them very much, thought there were points in which she could help him to improve them.

The Film Institute.

The British Film Institute is about to begin its functions. Its forerunner, the Commission on Educational and Cultural Films, has just been wound up; and although the Institute will not officially come into being until its governors have met, its director is already appointed and is dealing with its correspondence.

Mr. W. J. Brown, who will direct this Institute, is secretary of another—the British Institute of Adult Education. He was a student of Ruskin College, Oxford, and has been secretary of the Liverpool Shipping Guild and, later, of the International Federation of Trades Unions.

He has also stood twice for Parliament as the Labour candidate in the St. Albans division, and he has written a book entitled "Modern Mexico."

Mr. Brown is, in fact, a man of high capability. If he succeeds in convincing the British public that it wants to have a Film Institute at the expense of the hospitals—for it is to be financed by a proportion of the charity contribution from Sunday cinema performances—he will be something like a genius.

This is where the "New World" "Regulo" controlled Gas Cooker proves its worth, for you need only set the "Regulo" oven-heat controller, place the dinner, all together, in the oven, and then leave it to cook itself, unattended, until you are ready to serve it.

Doesn't this sound marvellous? ... But thousands of women enjoy a new leisure by using this wonderful Cooker. See them at our showrooms.

CONTROL OF LOCAL CABARETS

Proposed Government Regulations

DRAFT BILL OF NEW ORDINANCE

The long-awaited regulations governing the colony's cabarets have been drafted and are published in the "Government Gazette" today. They will come before the legislative council for approval at the next meeting.

The regulations are embodied in a draft Bill intitled "An Ordinance to consolidate and amend the law relating to miscellaneous licences" and may be cited as the Miscellaneous Licences Ordinance, 1933.

The principal features of the new regulation are the provisions for the registering of dancing partners for whom official approval is needed the prohibiting of persons under the age of 16 from dancing on the premises, the admittance of authorised persons at reasonable hour to inspect the premises and examine the records, and the rules governing sleeping on the premises.

The hour of midnight is set for closing time, but extension can be granted by the licensing authorities for particular occasions.

The definition of a "public dance-hall" is given as any place opened, kept, or used for the purpose of dancing, to which the general public are admitted with or without payment of entertainment and licensed as such.

Other licences affected by the Ordinance are those issued to auctioneers, hawkers, massage establishments, money-changers, and undertakers, also the licence covering public billiard-tables.

Main Regulations.

The principal dance hall regulations are as follows:—

Every person licensed to keep a public dance hall shall employ in the premises only such assistants as the licensing authority may approve.

Every person licensed to keep a public dance hall shall keep a register at the premises and shall correctly enter therein the names, age, sex, nationality, birthplace and place of residence in the Colony of every dancing partner and other person employed in the premises and shall affix thereto a photograph of every such dancing partner and employee.

No person under the age of 15 years shall be employed in or permitted to dance in the premises.

No person other than the licensee, members of his family, his agent, or watchman, and no person employed as a dancing partner shall sleep or be permitted to sleep on the licensed premises.

Extension of Hours.

The licensing authority may in his discretion for any particular occasion extend the hours prescribed in the licence. Such extension shall be in writing, and subject to the payment of the fee prescribed by these regulations.

No intoxicating liquors shall be sold or consumed in the premises, except under and in accordance with the terms of a valid licence in that behalf granted in respect of such premises.

Every person licensed to keep a public dance hall shall maintain good order in the premises and shall not suffer or permit therein:—

- (1) any profanity or impropriety of language;
- (2) any indecency of dress, dance or posture;
- (3) any offensive personalities or representations of living persons or anything calculated to produce riot or breach of the peace;
- (4) any drunkenness or other disorderly conduct;
- (5) any unlawful games; or
- (6) any persons of notoriously bad character to assemble and meet together.

The premises shall be lighted throughout by gas or electricity from the mains of a public utility company, and, except by and in accordance with the special permission of the licensing authority, no candle, oil lamp or other form of illumination shall be used therein.

Fire Precautions.

The licensing authority may require the removal of, and the licensee shall immediately remove, anything in the premises which in the opinion of the licensing authority is a fire danger.

No corridor shall be used as a cloak room, and no pegs for hanging hats or cloaks shall be allowed therein.

Official Inspections.

Every person holding a licence under this Part shall at all times—

AERIAL DISPLAY ON NAVY DAY

Destroyers To Be Seen In Action.

WARSHIPS OPEN TO PUBLIC

During Navy Day the Dockyard will be thrown open to the public from 1.30 p.m. until 6 p.m., and during this time residents will have a chance of inspecting the different types of naval craft and watching an aerial display.

An amusement park will be laid out on the football ground.

The first half of the programme will comprise Crossing the Line on the West Wall east, destroyers in action in the Basin, a Howitzer display on the Football Ground and Crossing the line on the west Wall East. An aircraft display will take place during the tea interval. Following tea a display will be given by the pipers from the 9th, 1st Regiment, and Retreat will be played by the bands at 5.30 p.m.

Vessels which will be thrown open for inspection will be H.M.S. Eagle, H.M.S. Suffolk, six destroyers, one or two submarines and one of the river gunboats. While the public are waiting to go on board periodic talks on the capabilities of the submarine will be given by one of the submariners officers.

Five bands, three naval and two military, will play during the day on the ships or at points within the Naval Yard. The two military bands, of the Lincoln and the South Wales Borderers, will be stationed on the naval football ground and the dockyard wall south-east of the Tamar respectively. The dance band of the Suffolk will play on the Tamar, where a tea dance is to be given.

That of the Berwick will be placed at the head of the dry dock, and the band of the Eagle will play on board.

Tea will be available at various points, in addition to the Tamar, in the Naval Yard. Side-shows and other amusements will be found on the football ground and a cinema is to be fitted up for the display of a series of naval films.

ANTARCTIC FLIGHT PLANNED.

American Prepares For 2,900-Mile Trip.

CARRYING HISTORIC WATCH

London.

Motor sledges failed to satisfy Scott on his Southern expedition, and he relied more on Siberian ponies and husky dogs. The 18 Oxonians now studying ice conditions in West Spitzbergen are using motor sledges only.

The American explorer, Mr. Lincoln Ellsworth, who hopes to fly 2,900 miles over the South Pole from the Ross Sea to the Weddell Sea, is carrying a large silver watch with him. He used it when he flew across the North Polar Sea with Amundsen in the dirigible airship "Norge." Then he gave it to the American Geographical Society, which has now asked him to take it with him on his Antarctic flight.

Should his 20-hour-long project succeed, the American Geographical Society will probably possess the most widely travelled timepiece in the world—as far as latitude is concerned.—Reuter.

NIRA TOWN SELLS N.I.R.A. STAMPS.

Unique Honour Falls To Iowa.

Washington.

To Nira, a tiny town in Iowa, goes the honour of being the second in the nation to offer for sale special postage stamps issued as part of the industrial recovery programme.

The post office here was first with stamps on sale August 15. Nira's sale started on August 17.

Nira is the only town in the country with the same name as the initials of the National Industrial Recovery Administration. It has a fourth-class postoffice. Four hundred million of the N. I. R. A. stamps are being printed to keep the recovery campaign constantly before the people.—Reuter.

TOWN TRAVELS TO CHICAGO FAIR

Celebrating Profitable Water-Melon Crop.

TRANSPORT BY TRUCK

Barwick, Georgia.

The population of Barwick, save for a few of the old folk, is travelling en masse to the Chicago fair, Niagara Falls and points north in celebration of a profitable water-melon crop.

Their mode of transportation is a big produce truck rigged up with comfortable seats, electric lights and huge placards on each side proclaiming to the world that they're from "Barwick, Georgia, heart of the Georgia water-melon."

Citizens of the town have just finished shipping 300 carloads of melons for which they were paid $3,000. Such wealth put them in a travelling mood, particularly the young folk. Somebody mentioned the World's Fair, and the idea spread like wild fire.

A Chicago hotel said it would give good rates and that settled everything. The elders shook their heads, but nobody paid much attention. Anyway, they were hopelessly outnumbered, for Barwick doesn't have many old folk.

And so the celebrants started packing for the trip. Incidentally, if the Chicago hotels run short of victuals, they can call on the Barwick folks for a little help.

In the truck were stored a dozen juicy hams, a flock of hens, many crates of tomatoes, canned goods, coffee, tea, sugar, a dozen cakes, 15 pounds of onions and a jug of grandma's blackberry cordial just in case somebody gets sick.—Reuter.

BRIDEGROOM'S MISFORTUNE

Melbourne.

The prospective bridegroom was having his last meal as a bachelor in a Melbourne suburb when he had the misfortune to break his false teeth in his hair.

What might have been merely an unfortunate nuisance was made serious by the fact that he swallowed them.

He was rushed to the Alfred Hospital and an X-ray examination revealed the broken denture in his stomach.

In spite of the misfortune, he determined that the ceremony should take place, and the marriage was performed at a private house in Malvern, Victoria, at 9.45—just two hours later.—Reuter.

SLUMP HITS 20 PER CENT OF U.S. CHILDREN

Malnutrition Causes Concern.

HEALTH BUREAU'S SURVEY

Washington.

One-fifth of the children of the United States have suffered definite injury to their health during the depression years, it is estimated by the United States Children's Bureau as a result of a recent survey.

Insufficient food or the wrong kind of it, poor housing conditions, lack of medical care, and in many cases "The effect of the anxiety and the sense of insecurity that prevails wherever there is no work" all have contributed to the slump in child health found by the Bureau, says the report. Both pre-school children and those of school age have suffered, it is indicated by a survey which is not complete but sufficiently wide in scope to justify the conclusions drawn from it.

"The sum of the evidence at hand," says the bureau, "points to the fact that the nutritional condition of children in many communities is showing increasingly serious effects of the long periods of unemployment and want."

From 50 to 90 per cent of 2,381 children examined in schools of some coal-mining regions in two States in 1931 were 10 per cent or more underweight, according to reports of the American Friends service committee.

While few statistics are available on malnutrition among babies, there are indications that malnutrition among mothers is having its effect on new-born babies and nurslings. A physician in Atlanta, Georgia, reports there has been a decrease of a quarter of a pound in the average birth weight of Negro babies since 1927. Increases in rickets have been reported from several localities.—Reuter.

ARMED ROBBERY PREVENTED.

Raiding Gang Caught At Shauiwan.

FOUR MEN GAOLED FOR SIX MONTHS

Five Chinese, Li Kwan, Dung Mah-yuen, Cheng Kam, Leung Kau and Wong Yau appeared before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy yesterday on a charge of possession of unlawful instruments, four knives, a coil of rope, a coil of wire, and six strips of black cloth, with intent to use the same at 348, Main Street, Shauiwan, West, on Friday evening.

The first four accused pleaded guilty to the charge but Wong Yau, the fifth, denied having taken part. His plea was accepted and he was discharged.

Sergeant Fitches said that at about 9 o'clock on Friday night the Police received information to the effect that 348, Main Street, Shauiwan, West, was to be raided and that the accused could be found waiting at 231, Main Street, an opium divan.

The five accused were found in the room, but were not smoking. The articles were done up in neat little packets. All admitted possession.

His Worship sentenced the four to six months' hard labour each.

ATTEMPT TO ROB WITH VIOLENCE.

Two Chinese Gaoled.

Sentence of six months' hard labour was yesterday morning passed on Liu Hin and Lau Hing, by Mr. Schofield at the Central Magistracy, for attempted robbery with violence.

Sub. Inspector W. H. Nolloth, who prosecuted, said that the complainant, Mr. A. R. M. Samy, Chief Meter Inspector of the China Light and Power Co., Ltd., was returning to his home on Friday with his salary in his pocket, and when on the first landing of 13 Yee Wo Street, was confronted by the first accused, who threw pepper into his eyes.

Complainant was blinded for several moments and opened his eyes to see the second man ascending the stairs. He shouted, and both the accused ran away, but passers-by, attracted by the shout, detained the second accused.

From information obtained from this man the police were enabled to arrest the other accused.

WHERE HUDSON TOOK COMMUNION

Historic Church In London May Go.

PORCH DEEMED UNSAFE

London.

There is talk of demolishing the stone porch of the church of St. Ethelburga the Virgin, which abuts on the pavement of Bishopsgate. In this little relic of sixteenth century London, which miraculously escaped the Great Fire of 1666 and is now overshadowed by the largest mercantile and shipping offices of the City, the navigator Henry Hudson, his son and part of his crew took communion together in April of 1607, before setting out in the "Hopeful" to explore the coasts of Spitzbergen.

Two tiny shops, stuck like swallows nests on either side of the porch, were removed last year as being obstructive and out of place. Now the porch is deemed unsafe and soon the molloy front of St. Ethelburga's will be bare and orthodox.

The church has a memorial window recently put in by the Hudson Bay Company and inscribed to Henry Hudson.—Reuter.

An exhibition of modern antimony will be held at Messrs. Komor and Komor's Art Rooms, commencing on Wednesday, October 4, remaining open for ten days, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

Powder and antimony have been known and used for more than 200 years but it is claimed that the goods to be shown in this exhibition are the result of a new and secret process, by which the metal acquires and retains a sheen like silver.

A large range of ornamental as well as useful goods will be displayed, at special prices for the period of the exhibition only.

The Greatest Example Of Humility

Virtue Unappreciated By World To-day

A SELF-CENTRED GENERATION

(By A Local Padre.)

(This is another of the series of articles written exclusively for the "Sunday Herald" by a local Army chaplain.)

If the question were asked today: What have been the two main characteristics of these, the opening years of the twentieth century, one feels that the answer might well be:—

1. A period of epoch making history.

2. A time of unparalleled change and activity in every phase and department of human life.

Look around where you will, the world in which we live is soaked in the tragedy of nations, in the passions of peoples, in the despair of individual men and women. It is seething with hatred and hope, and with burning and flaming ideals. The youth of our day is groping madly about to find some new philosophy of life. The old world of leisure, luxury and tradition has gone, never to return. A new world has been born with desperate problems in international social and economic life, that still seem to baffle the keenest brains and intellects.

Not satisfied with the ravages that the Great War has left in the very texture of human life, the rattle of the sabre is being heard again in more countries than one. Once more we seem to be living on the edge of a volcano.

Yet underneath it all there is a strange undercurrent of feeling, a longing in the hearts of men and women for something higher and nobler than they have yet experienced—a groping of souls in the darkness to find that light which dimly, or even unconsciously, they have heard, lighteth every man that is born into the world.

The Only Succour.

Is this thing that they are seeking—a phantasm—and a dream? Where is the light to come from that is to guide the nations through the darkness of the coming years? Where is humanity, sick of things as they are, going to find that uplift they so sorely need?

We seem to have tried everything human reason can devise. There only seems one thing left. In the extremity of our need we of the Christian Faith are driven back to the religion of Jesus Christ, confident that in Him is the only ultimate solution.

Across the ages there comes the echo of that Voice that was Divine. I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto Me. I am the Way, the Truth and the Life.

The sublime wonder and beauty of the One Who spoke those words is just the fact that He can appeal to every character and condition and temperament. In Him each one can see his perfect ideal, in Him that characteristic which most appeals to his mind.

In this and the next few succeeding articles I propose to examine His divine Character and Personality so that we may see which aspect could so attract the hearts and minds of men that they would be drawn irresistibly to Him, or finding in Him some common denominator, they might sink their differences and live in peace according to His will.

Acme of Humility

First of all, He might be uplifted as The Greatest Example of Humility the world has ever known.

His human setting was of the very lowest. He who was the Son of God was not born in the royal purple, or cradled in the palaces of kings, but in a lowly manger with the beasts of the field about his bed. His Mother could only afford the cheapest gifts at her purification. His Father was a man of the people who worked for his daily bread at a carpenter's bench. He had no other education than that of the village Rabbi, no books other than the Law.

When His school days were over, following the custom of the Jews, he had to learn a trade. Quite naturally he followed that of his father. As he grew up in these humble surroundings His hands became hardened by manual labour. His face tanned by the Eastern sun. He knew the slipway, Yaumatei.

meaning of weariness at the close of the day, for His job included cutting down the trees with his own hands, and carrying them back to the workshop, there to be made and fashioned according to orders.

The Perfect Worker.

Of one thing we can be very certain, that nothing shoddy ever left that workshop. No one ever pointed to Him in the after years, when He was going from place to place, as the carpenter who turned out badly made articles. If they had, it would surely have told against Him with the crowd, and always raised a laugh. Even there He was thorough, putting everything He had into His job, because He knew that all labour was His Father's work, just as much as the preaching and ministry of His later days.

And never again can the working man be despised as such, for by His own life of toil the Master has for ever consecrated the life service of men. He has proved His dignity and its worth. As a worker He can appeal to the world's workers, for He knows their needs, the oft-times monotony of their calling, the long hours and the drudgery.

The day came when He laid down His tools for the last time, swept up the shavings from the workshop floor, and went out to find His destiny. Like many another boy in a small town, the thought came to Him that His life could be bigger than his father's, that there were larger limits than a country town.

Unappreciated Virtue.

In the three short years that followed, His life was still of the simplest. He had no home to call His own, no place to lay His head. His friends were working men and humble women. He even stooped to wash His disciples' feet. He who was the world Lord was among men as One that serveth. He gave Himself unsparringly for others. He died the death reserved only for the lowest criminal.

Was there ever a life of humility such as His? But would that virtue appeal to the world to-day? The chances are that it would not, chiefly because we mistake it for servility. Taking us all round we are far too egocentric,—out for ourselves. Life has become a scramble for wealth and place and power. Jack is as good as his master, and the master wields the big stick. The man who professes humility is regarded with mistrust and suspicion.

Humanity will never be drawn together by the humility of the Master until they have learned the meaning of unselfishness.

AMERICA'S HOPE IN "NIRA" WILL ROOSEVELT'S CAMPAIGN FOR NATIONAL RECOVERY WIN THROUGH?

(By Percy S. Bullen.)

THROUGHOUT the United States to-day there are happenings, often very significant, which illustrate marked differences of viewpoint regarding the National Recovery Act—"Nira" it is called from the initials, just as there is "Dora" on the English side.

The differences also illustrate the difficulties which confront President Roosevelt's efforts to restore national prosperity—the crusade of "the new deal for the forgotten man."

Two such happenings I have just witnessed in New York, and they may be duplicated in every city from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

In the morning, through a driving rain, a small procession passed up Broadway to Union-square, New York, an open-air forum. In the vanguard a man carried an immense flag emblazoned with the Blue Eagle on a white foreground, the emblem of Nira.

One claw clutched a cogwheel, the symbol of unity, and the other a few zigzags, variously interpreted as lightning or thunderbolts, but in either case indicating the power of quick and decisive action possessed by the Washington Government.

Recovery Forces. Then came a band of sixty unemployed musicians playing "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," followed by half-a-dozen "pep" orators—the "minute men" of the Recovery forces—citizens who were salaried for goods in the years of prosperity and who are now retained at so much per head to sell ideas.

Arriving in Union-square, the big flag was hoisted ceremoniously, while the band played "The Star-Spangled Banner." For the next half-hour there was a deluge of "pep" talk—very crisp and snappy, but not always convincing.

"If we all work together under the Blue Eagle," said one speaker, "America will be out of the wood by Christmas. America will be once again the land of the brave and the free and the prosperous."

There were loud cheers when one "minute man" declared:

"The National Recovery Act is the greatest politico-social-economic experiment, outside of Russia; the world has never seen. With Nira we shall triumph."

Without Nira we shall go back to the economic hell from which we are now happily escaping." (Loud cheers).

A Roosevelt Warning. In the same square, a few hours later, one heard the opposition voiced clamorously by Socialist and Communist speakers, meeting under the auspices of the "Ex-Servicemen's League," an organization to secure the bonus for war veterans.

"Don't be fooled by Nira," warned one speaker, formerly a college professor.

"Nira is simply a hypodermic injection for the dying carcass of capitalism." (Rounds of cheers). "If Nira is to succeed, there must be a tremendous amount of buying before Christmas. Where is the buying to come from when 17,000,000 are unemployed and 1,000,000 people in New York alone are destitute, facing a winter of starvation? Those who are prepared to buy, please raise hands."

Not a single hand in a crowd of 400 was raised. This orator, like his comrades, enlarged upon Soviet Russia as the land of milk and honey, where every man has work and poverty has been extinguished. He denounced the Blue Eagle as a "buzzard, a bird of prey!"

One school of thought, you will see, predicts colossal success for the Recovery Administration, and another predicts abysmal failure. Somewhere between these two extremes the answer may be found.

Meantime it is important to note that President Roosevelt himself has warned the people that the closest co-operation between big industry, the retailers and the consuming public, is absolutely necessary to secure the success which everyone so ardently desires.

The Little Man. Big Industry, with much undercover resentment in special cases, has been harnessed to the purposes of the Recovery Act—the distribution of work among more people by lessening the hours of employees and fixing minimum wages—and because more people will be employed, it is declared that the consuming power of the public will be increased.

The aid of big industry, however, will be futile unless small industry—the retailers, the small shopkeepers, upon whom distribution and sales to the public depend—is able and willing to co-operate.

In Washington, where thousands of retailers have gone to protest against codes with which they are unable to comply, and in New York, where I have chatted with many typical shopkeepers, there is undoubtedly a desire to line up with the Recovery code if possible.

To comply, however, with a code which keeps a shop open fifty-two hours in a week, reduces employees' hours to forty hours a week, and virtually compels the retailer to engage new assistants at a minimum of £3 a week in cities—a little less in country districts—spells bankruptcy, they say.

On the other hand, failure to agree to the code means that the shopkeeper cannot display the Blue Eagle, and such failure would involve boycotting by the public. To display the code without authority, as some are doing to-day, incurs the risk of exposure and possibly of prosecution.

The abolition of child labour, with the age limit at sixteen, is also a great hardship on thousands of parents struggling to make both ends meet. Such abolition in the factories—notably the textile industry—is applauded by the public. But the case for abolition in regard to the small tradesman, based on the supposition that an adult will be employed at a minimum wage, is less convincing.

"Buy Till It Hurts." There is one other factor in a very difficult and complex situation to which insufficient consideration has apparently been given—the consumer. Nira may lasso the banker, the industrialist, big business, and even small business, into the great machine. But there is no power on earth which can persuade the public against its will "to buy until it hurts," to quote the "pep" orators.

If, however, the public holds back, or buys insufficiently to justify the increased cost of production, distribution, and selling, Nira collapses of its own weight!

NAVY BEAT BORDERERS

Nicholls made some good saves, and did well to hold a hot shot from Leach, but some seconds later Birmingham gave him no chance with a fast low shot which hit the bottom of the upright and rebounded into the net.

Kowloon:—Nicholls; Winch (J);
Everest; Pope, Oldfield, Tillery; Humphries, Smith, Winch (G), Duffield and White.
Artillery:—Woods; Price; Gibbons;
Hunt, Worthington, Stevens; Snooks,
Hardy, Birmingham, Leach and Hill.

Champions Defeat Club 4 To 1.

Three first-time shots in the opening half paved the way for the Athletic's triumph over the Club by 4 goals to 1 at the Valley.

The champions' forwards played delightful football in the first half being fast and tricky, but after the interval the Club defence improved considerably, and McKellar, Boyd and Gamble were able to keep the Chinese in check.

Lo Chai-wan schemed cleverly and kept Koo Hung-cheung always on the move with splendid passes.
The Chinese defence were not tested severely for the Club forwards lacked combination, many fine centres from Lawson, who gave a sparkling display, going a-begging.
Bell went close with good efforts, but Fisher was wasted in the centre.

Good play by Cheong Moon-wing resulted in the first goal, Koo meeting the ball on the run. A few minutes later Koo repeated the effort and the Club conceded another goal when Lo Chai-wan combined well with Chan Yin-chueng for the former to score with a great drive.

After the interval the Club enjoyed most of the play. Williams hit the post, and Bell shot just over.
The Athletic, however, went further ahead when Koo scored his third goal. In the last minutes
Bell scored after a great solo effort.

Club:—Farrow; Lowe, Ralston;
McKellar, Boyd, Gamble; Lawson,
Bell, Fisher, Williams and Sloan.
Athletic:—Li Kwok-ki; Chan Shin-chuen, Lo Hon-cheung; To Ho-sang, Ng Tak-wing, Lo Chan-ming; Chan Yin-chueng, Lo Chai-wan, Koo Hung-cheung, Au Ping-ming and Cheong
Moon-wing.

Referee: C. M. S. Hyde, cancelled the Radio v R.A.S.C. game as the ground was not marked out and there were no goal nets up.

Ng Po Kui Gives S. China A Win.

South China showed promise of being in the running for the championship when they defeated the Lincolns at Caroline Hill by four clear goals.

South China were definitely the superior team throughout the game and had no fear of losing at any period. Chan Kwan-kong and Ng Po-kui were outstanding, while Lam Tuk-po at centre-half worked very hard.

South China were on the offensive from the start, and in an early raid Ng Po-kui sent South China ahead. The Chinese went further ahead through Kum Shek-wai who headed through from a pass by Ng Po-kui.

After the interval the Lincolns improved, but they soon fell to pieces and South China scored two further goals through Ng Po-kui.

South China:—Wong Wah-kai; Ma
ping-cheung, Cheung Wai-lam; Yau
Wai-hing, Lam Tuk-po, George Yeung;
Chan Kwan-kong, Ng Po-kui, Kam
Shek-wai, Lai Sui-wing and Yuen
Poon-hon.

Lincolns:—Duncan; Wildstone, Bostock; Maughan, Worrall, Wildy; Clayton, Ennis, Higgins, McGuinness and Toyne.

Third Division.
R.A.M.C. MAKE FINE DEBUT

The Royal Army Medical Corps, newcomers to the League, made an auspicious debut with a 10-1 victory over the University. Poole, (2), Lane, and King scored for the Medicals in the first half, but Tjon decreased the deficit before the interval. Pim (2), Poole (2), and King (2) added goals for the winners after the interval.

On the Chatham Road ground yesterday South China defeated the Royal Engineers by the odd goal in three. To Wai-hing and Tang Man-hang netting for the winners, and Hollingsworth scoring with a fine drive for the losers.

Lincolns TROUNCE RECREIO
The Lincolns defeated the Recreio at King's Park by five clear goals. Clarke scoring four goals, one from a penalty, after Harper had opened the scoring.

REFEREE CANCELS GAME
The referee, C.M.S. Hyde, cancelled the Radio v R.A.S.C. game as
the ground was not marked out and
there were no goal nets up.

THE TIGER OF TIBET

"Listen, sahib. There is at any rate one Tibetan servant. You can speak his heathen tongue. Could you not try to make friends with him? We might thus gain an entry to the camp; otherwise we would be treated as beggars."

"He is in the store now. I will try at once."

Geoffrey found the Tibetan surrounded by a swarm of yelling pilgrims, amongst whom he seemed strangely out of place. When an Indian does happen to know any language other than his own he is fond of showing off, and consequently it seemed natural that Geoffrey should address the Tibetan in his native tongue. The man turned round astonished, but smiled as the words of greeting fell haltingly from Geoffrey's lips.

Having completed his purchases, the Tibetan explained that he had to return quickly to prepare his master's dinner, but added a request that his new-found friend should come round to the camp in the evening, when all duties would be over, and smoke a pipe. All Orientals love gossip, and Geoffrey counted on this trait in the Tibetan. He guessed that the temptation of chatting in his own language about the various cities of Eastern China would prove too strong to be resisted, for he had purposely explained that he had travelled fairly extensively with his supposed master during the latter's periods of leave.

Sher Khan wished to accompany Geoffrey when the time arrived, but Geoffrey thought it would be better to go alone, and so Sher Khan unwillingly agreed to stay behind with their baggage.

Geoffrey received a warm welcome, and the Tibetan conducted him to a small servants' tent in front of which blazed a crackling fire. They sat and smoked, chatting for about ten minutes, when the Tibetan rose with the excuse that he had to convey his master's orders to the pony-man.

Geoffrey had not been alone in the little tent for thirty seconds when he heard a rustle outside. Before he could move to investigate, the tent collapsed upon him. He could feel men flinging themselves on him, and his struggles were in vain. He could not reach his pistol. Some heavy implement crashed on to his head and he lost consciousness.

When Geoffrey came to his head ached and his limbs seemed strangely numb and cramped. Slowly the mist which dimmed his senses began to clear, and bit by bit he remembered how he had been taken prisoner. He was in total darkness and had no means of ascertaining his whereabouts. He tried to move his arms and then his legs, but failed, and then realised the reason for that strange lack of feeling. He was firmly bound. He tried to collect his thoughts, but the recent past seemed strangely elusive, so he gave it up and attempted to concentrate more upon the immediate present. His cheek rubbed against sheepskin, and he was covered by a blanket of sorts, so his captors did not apparently wish him to die of cold. Why? Why? He could not think. His head ached. Once more he sank into oblivion.

He recovered consciousness for the second time with a jerk. A bright light dazzled his eyes. He closed them at once, but the movement was noticed by his jailer, who rewarded it with a vicious kick. In

MOTORING NOTES.

Sun Spoils 500 h.p. Car Bid

Mr. J. Cobb's Burst Tyres.

The heat robbed Mr. John Cobb of his first world's record recently. He took his new Napier-Railton 500 h.p. car out on the Brooklands track to try to beat the 200 miles record, established by the Frenchman, Divo, on a Bugatti at Montlhery last year. As the figure was only 113 miles an hour it, looked a comparatively easy task. But that was reckoning without the sun.

Early as it was, the concrete at Brooklands was like the floor of an oven, and even the specially built racing tyres could not stand the heat and the terrific strain of the great car taking the bends. Three tyres failed.

Fortunately, Cobb had warning each time, and was able to avoid the peril of a burst at full speed, but with the most rapid wheel-changing he lost so much time that the attempt finally had to be abandoned.

After the second tyre went it was calculated that it was just possible to beat the record, and Cobb went up to 130, and finally to 132 miles per hour.

Just over 166 miles were covered at an average speed, including the stops, of 116.91 m.p.h. The car ran perfectly all the time.

OLD VEHICLES LOSE TRADE

When a fleet of smart new buses commenced to operate in Palestine on the route between Haifa, Jerusalem and Jaffa, no considerable amount of heartburning was caused.

Not unnaturally the public patronised the new vehicles to the detriment of the older ones and, as a correspondent tactfully puts it, the new buses proved so attractive that a number of collisions "occurred."

Fortunately, the owners of the position to maintain efficient servicing arrangements, so that these little incidents were not productive of serious delays on the route.

BULLET-PROOF GLASS.

Produced In Britain
Before The War.

The news that Japan has invented a bullet-proof safety glass, which is being used on motor-vehicles during operations in Manchuria, will be of interest to many motorists who served in the War.

Glass that withstood bullet fire was being produced in Britain before 1914, and during the War one well-known firm supplied glass from three-eighths of an inch to 3in. thick for use in tanks, aircraft, and Service vehicles.

It is still being supplied to the War Office, and two years ago experiments were carried out by the French War Office with bullet-proof glass of similar construction.

Bullet-proof glass is also used by many banks in America to protect cashiers from bandits.

Spite of himself Geoffrey gasped. "So, thou Hindu dog. Thou wast very cunning to make my acquaintance with thy knowledge of Tibetan. Oh, thou fool, to imagine that thou might deceive me, the Great One's trusted servant."

The voice was strangely familiar and brought back recollection. Geoffrey gradually let his eyes become accustomed to the light of the hurricane-lantern and recognised Thompson's Tibetan servant who had tricked him.

But the fast words the man had spoken—"thou Hindu dog"—these indicated he had not penetrated the disguise, and this gave Geoffrey a glimmer of hope.

Signed.

London, Yesterday.
The Anglo-Finnish trade agreement was signed at Helsinki yesterday afternoon. The terms of the agreement will be made public shortly.

The conclusion of the agreement marks a further stage in the British Government's trade policy which has been followed since the Ottawa Conference, when trade relations within the Empire were placed on a new basis.

Agreements have now been completed with Germany, Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Finland.
Negotiations with several other countries are in immediate contemplation.—British Wireless Service.

SINO-JAPANESE RELATIONS

Chinese Minister To Tokyo Hopeful.

HIS PERSONAL FRIENDSHIP
WITH MR. HIROTA

Shanghai, Yesterday.
In an interview with pressmen
yesterday, Mr. Chiang Tso-pao, Chinese Minister to Tokyo, who is expected shortly to be sailing for Japan to resume his duties, made the following important
statement:

"As both China and Japan are independent nations, it is quite right for them to undertake direct negotiations on any problems affecting the two countries.
However, the existing Sino-
Japanese problems are too complicated to warrant direct negotiations immediately, though it might be possible in the future.

"Mr. Hirota, the new Japanese Foreign Minister, is my intimate friend, and I believe that, with the help of mutual understanding and personal friendship, we can restore the two nations to a friendly and happy footing. I hope that these two Asiatic peoples will not be too sentimental in facing the difficult situation.

"The so-called Asiatic Monroe Doctrine is, in my opinion, a rival to the pet idea of internationalism of the Westerners.
If we take a longer view, its true meaning and value can be better appreciated."—Central News Agency.

Chancellor Hitler

Geneva, Yesterday.
With the departure of the German Minister, Baron Von Neurath, for Berlin to consult Chancellor Hitler, and of Senor Savitich, the Italian delegate, for Rome and the report that Sir John Simon, the British Foreign Secretary, will leave for London, to-day, nothing much is likely to emerge in the way of Disarmament for a few days, although the French Foreign Minister, M. Paul Boncour, and the United States delegate Mr. Norman Davis will remain here.
Baron Von Neurath, before leaving gave a more optimistic im-tain, France and America is unchanged.

FANG'S FORCES NEAR TUNGCHOW.

Peking.

Peking, Yesterday.
Heavy gunfire was to-day heard in Tungchow, a city 30 miles north of Peking.

Refugees are pouring in there from Tungchow. This is due to the approach of General Fang
Chen-wu's forces.

The Peking Branch Military Commission has mapped out a definite line of action with the Japanese to check the advance of General
Fang's forces which are in Pan Chao (Wooden Bridge) and have been reinforced by the troops of General Sun Tien-ying.—Central
